SAN FRANCISCO, April 7th-[Special.]-The Commissioners appointed by Governor Bartlett to select a site in the northern part of the State for a branch Normal School, held a meeting to-day and balloted on a number of places visited. The Kissane Matter.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7th .- [Special.]-There is no longer any secrecy concerning William Kissane, regarding whom so much has been said in late Eastern dispatches. It is well-known and admitted by those who know him now and who knew him in is his proper name) responded to the de-mands of those who had claims on him, the probabilities are that he would have continued to be known as Wm. K. Rogers, and no persons except the few familiar with his early career would have ever known or suspected him to be the notorious Wm. Kissane. Many believe that the charges against him will not be pushed, unless he positively refuses to make some reparation toward those he has injured. [The identity of Wm. Kissane was revealed some days ago in the dispatches. There has been no secret for some days that Kissane and Rogers were one and the same person. A great deal of the matter concerning the man that has een telegraphed from the East has been pub ished, and a good deal cast aside as less valua ole than other news. The effort is made in certain quarters to create the impression that naster-stroke of genius has revealed some as unding secret in fixing the identity of the an Kissane, but there are, in truth, no new revelations, unless exception is made of the statements published that involve a brother of Kissane's, whose only crime appears to be that of brotherhood to him. That any public good is conserved by thus dragging inno ent families to public gaze because of their re ationship to Kissane, will scarcely be con ended. The fact is, such exposure of the inno cent to shame and disgrace is the part of heartessness. An attache of the RECORD-UNION knew years ago of the abandonment of the family name by some who bore relationship to Kissane in order to protect the innocent from unde served suffering, but it was not deemed either brave or newsy to publish the fact.]

Perhaps He Changed It. FLORENCE, April 7th .- A man answering the description of the Wooden valley mur-derer, Pete Olsen, was arrested Tuesday in a saloon two miles above here. He was im-mediately released, however, owing to the scar on his face being under the left, instead of the right ear. ANOTHER MAN WITH A SCAR.

Stewart, San Francisco; V. W. Gaskell, Oakland; E. S. Pillsbury, San Francisco, and L. Fillmore, Oakland. The places from and to which the road is proposed to be run is from a point on the South Pacific Coast Railroad, known as Campbell's Station, to a point at the easterly end of the right of way obtained from the Quicksilver Mining Company of the Pacific Research pany, May 28, 1886. Favoring the Amendments. OAKLAND, April 7th .- The Convention of delegates appointed by the Mayors and Presidents of the Boards of Trade of several cities to arrange for the active support of Amendment No. 3 at the election on Tuesday, met to-day. There were not many delegates from elsewhere present, but many communications favorable to the adoption of the amendment were received. Several Oakland attorneys and others urged the Convention to declare in favor of Amendments Nos. 1 and 2. The committee appointed to prepare an address to the voters, presented an address strongly urgng the electors to vote for Amendment No. 3, non-committal as to Amendments Nos. 1 and 2, but calling attention to the arguments of the San Francisco Bar Assotion in their support. The address was adopted.

After the Bugs. Los Angeles, April 7th .- Professor C. V. Riley, United States Entomologist, who has been spending some days in San Diego county, went out yesterday with Joel B. Parker and Mr. Loquillett to study the red scale at Orange. His presence has already had a good effect in inspiring confidence among rather disheartened orange growers. He will address the State Board of Horticulture at the annual meeting at Riverside.

The Professor has more special invitations from different parts of the State than he can possibly accept. He expects to leave next week for San Francisco and the Napa and Sonoma valleys.

PARNELL INTERVIEWED.

The Irish Leader Talks Freely Upon Leading Issues of the Day.

[Record-Union's Special Cablegram—Copyrighted by the New York Tribune.] NEW YORK, April 8th-A. M .- The Tribune's correspondent telegraphs from London the following interview with the Irish leader, Parnell:

Gill-" How do you like the look of the Parnell-" I like the situation. The arbitrary action of the Government in closing the debate when my amendment to the first reading of the coercion bill had only been under discussion for one evening has produced a strong feeling of antagonism to the measure throughout Great Britain. Recollect, this was not a case of Englishmen stopping the mouths of Irishmen. It was 360 Tories and renegade Liberals formally applying the closure to a minority of 250 strong, consisting not merely of the Irish party, but of the great Liberal party of England, now holding the constitutional position of the Queen's opposition, and at their head the greatest English statesmen of the country and the oldest and most industrious parliamentarian in the House of commons. This unheard of proceeding as irritated the Liberals in the country exceed ngly, and, in my judgment, has ir-retrievably damaged the bill, which will certainly be carried by a diminished marity at its second reading, but in no case can it survive the committee stage in its present form. In fact, I have not permitted myself to take so cheerful a view of he general political situation at any time ince the elections as during the last few

"The manifestations of honest popular dignation now taking place thr England are quite unprecedented, and are most inspiring. Please say that a tremendous effect has been produced by the spontaneous demonstration which the Ameri-

an people have been good enough to make n cur behalf." "What do you think will happen in Ire-land if the coercion bill passes, although in a modified form? 'Well, I hope its evil designs will be oiled. Hitherto the Coercion Act has always blooded up landlords to evic', and victions unfortunately have always rought crime in their train. The reason ast winter was so quiet was because the andlords gave concessions. The moment ny bill was thrown out, the Cork landiords held a meeting, and Penrose Fitzgerald, who moved the rejection of my bill, urged them to feduce their rents so as to prove my bill was not needed. The cue of the Tories then was to govern Ireland, as they vaunted they could do, at the general elections, without coercion and without home phesy the Government supplemented the voluntary action of the Cork landlords by bringing pressure to bear on refractory rack-renters through the agency of County Court Judge Surran, General Buller and Captain Plunkett. When you add to these exertions the action of Dillon and O'Brien in working the plan of campaign, the influence of which extended to estates far peyond the radius of those on which i was adopted, you will see what powerfu machinery there was in opposition bring down rents, to check evictions and consequently to prevent crime. Now however, the landlords and the Government are on another tack altogethe ing for their existence. The Governmen s preparing wildly to coerce, and the land-ords to evict. Under ordinary circumstances such a combination would in-evitably produce an outbreak of crime and outrages, but I have every confidence that in this case the Irish people will resist the attempt of the Government and landlords to goad them into violence."

Gill-" Would not an outbreak of crime have an unfortunate effect upon English Parnell-" Yes, it would be most unfortunate. Crime would shock and revolt English opinion and postpone home rule for some time—perhaps too long—perhaps till Gladstone's political life were over.

Correspondence between Senator Stanford and the Commiss WASHINGTON, April 7th .- The following correspondence fully explains itself:

Washington, April 7th.—The following correspondence fully explains itself:

San Flancisco, April 4, 1887.

T. M. Cooley, Chairman Interstate Commerce Commission: The question before us, in competition with the Suez Canal route for business with China and Japan, is whether we can make competing prices through to Atlantic ports at less rates than local rates charged, say, from San Francisco to New York, the line from China and Japan being a continuous one in connection with the Central Pacific and Union Pacific railways. The question is also before us of making, in competition with Cape Horn and the Isthmus of Panama Railroad, a rate that permits shipments between San Francisco and Atlantic poris—those rates, in order to meet competition, being necessarily lower for the longer distance than those charged for the shorter, and far below what would be a reasonable rate for service performed. We construe the fourth section of the Interstate Commerce Act practically to be, in substance, the application to interstate commerce of the common law principle—that the shipper shall avail himself of competition, and that a less rate may be charged for a longer than for a shorter distance, providing more could not be obtained. If the right of competition is recognized as between carrier and shipper, our carrying business will not be interrupted; but otherwise, we shall be unable to compete for the Chinese and Japanese trade with the Suez Canal, and also unable to compete with the water routes by Panama and Cape Horn for business originating in California. We await your construction.

WASHINGTON, April 5, 1887.

Leland Stanford, President Southern Pacific Rai road Company: Applications to the Commission for special exception under the interstate commerce law can only be granted after investigation into the facts. A verified petition setting forth the ground of the application should be presented.

T. M. COOLEY, Chairman. SENATOR STANFORD EXPLAINS.

SENATOR STANFORD EXPLAINS.

T. M. Cooley—Sir: We don't ask for a ruling upon a special case, but a construction of Section 4. Asall business between the Pacific and Atlantic ports is governed by competition, business from the portsof China and Japan, across the continent to Atlantic ports, is governed by competition, and agents in China and Japan, to obtain business, fix rates to meet the competition of the Suez Canal. One of the Oriental and Occidental Company's ships will arrive in a few days with a cargo mostly for points east of the Rocky Mountains. If the rates established by other companies are maintained, contracts made for these shipments cannot be carried out. All through business of overland lines is involved, and we cannot accept and dispatch feight except upon a general ruling applicable to all business. The question arries upon every ton of freight offered for shipment, and practically, we find ourselves unable to do through business. You will see, therefore, that any special ruling, or exception, will not meet the case, as it arises upon every ton of freight offered.

commerce Commission has to-day promulgated the following:

The Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwankee Railroad Company having made application for a suspension of the operation of Section 4 of the Interstate commerce law, so far as it would apply to traffic taken across Lake Michigan to Grand Haven, and destined to points east of Detroit and St. Clair rivers, and having assigned as a reason for such suspension that said railway company owns and operates a line of boats on Lake Michigan, and has been doing so for many years past, and by common consent its competitors have been allowed to charge a less rate from Milwaukee, by way of Grand Haven, in the traffic above mentioned, than is charged on the all-rail lines by way of Chicago on like traffic, and that the making of such less rates by said railway company is just and fair as between Milwaukee and Chicago, and is necessary to enable said petitioners to compete with said lines by way of Chicago: and said railway company having further shown that between certain points on its line east of Lake Michigan it has been customary to make rates on such traffic which are greater for shorter than for longer hauls, which greater charges are reasonable and correspond to those made by the competing lines; and the Commission having heard said application and duly considered it, and it appearing to the Commission that the case is a proper one for temporary relief, it is now ordered that for a period of ninety days from this proper one for temporary relief, it is now dered that for a period of ninety days from t date the operation of said fourth section of t

THE BEGINNING OF THE END. This journal from the outset expresse the belief that the interstate commerce law was not much to be feared, because i contained within itself the seeds of early decay. We had given it three months lease of life, at the most, believing that it is impossible for legislation to invert the laws of trade, or reverse the current of the world's commerce. The temporary exemption made from the operation of the long and short haul clause for the Southern Railway Company, is a prima facie case in vor of the differential rates necessary points, and having local or non-competitive points of discharge also. The right is given to that company-pending investigation-to charge less for a long than a short haul, the long haul being between competitive points and the short haul from and to points not touched by competing systems of carriage. And in granting this privilege the Interstate Commis sion concedes, for the time being at least, that water lines do compete with rail lines, and that the latter cannot meet the former at rates that are applicable for hauls to places not enjoying competitive advantages. Yet that remarkably obtuse sists in declaring that the low rates of heels of this comes the California system of railway lines, showing that it is about to receive consignments of goods from the Orient, the carriage of which cannot be undertaken under the schedules that are the natural and inevitable results of the That is to say, the law is prohibitive of continental transit for goods of the Orient. So, too, a New England system of railways has applied for exclause, for the good business reason that it water lines upon a level of rates or lose old, yet from all over the country the cry punish the consumer and the shipper of goods and work them irreparable damage. The dispatches this morning convey the additional intelligence that the Commis sion has granted relief for ninety days to the Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railroad Company, and for reasons that expose the absurdity of the law in all its nakedness. That road operates boats between Mil waukee and Grand Haven, on the opposite shore, and carries freight between Chicago and eastern points by that route. But around the chain of great lakes, and to Chicago and the East. This is natural competition, and as the Commission say, the rates resultant as between Chicago But on the route of the Grand Haven and Milwaukee road are points between which it charges a higher rate than for the long haul, and such charges new law these non-competing points could complain that they are not given as low rates as result from the competition between the terminal points, and for fear of ties, the road must do one of two thingsreduce the rate between the non-competitive points to the level of the long haul or competitive rates, or abandon the through traffic. Such abandonment could not benefit the intermediate points in any If the bill should pass, and the New York way, nor does the long haul, under competition, injure them-while having no cannot reasonably ask for the rates resulting from competition between other places.

less from competing points than from points where there is no competition. It is left to the Commission to decide when railways may depart from the rule of "similar rates in similar circumstances," in these two instances. The English Board of Trade arrived at this solution of the problem by a very simple process. They said that there were three interests to be considered: The interests of shippers, the interests of the railroads, and the interests of the consumers, and of these three the last is entitled to the first consideration. "If," said Lord Stanley, "we forbid railroads from meeting water competition, an important channel of communication between producer and consumer will be blocked, while on the other hand, the sea route or other competing line would be left free to other competing line would be left free to crease their charges, the consumer would be aced in a worse position than he is, and the roducer would find himself excluded from narkets in which he now competes.' In whatever light the matter can be viewed, it will be clear to whoever studies the question, that the effort of Congress to prevent greater charge for service to a noncompetitive than to a competitive point must operate to the injury of the consumer -he is the man after all who must foot the

AND NOW THE UNDERTAKERS.

The regulating craze has become absoutely ridiculous. It is being carried to such extremes as to be odious, and deserves the assault of satire and ridicule and the protests of those who believe paternalism government to be dangerous. Nearly everything under the sun has either been legislatively regulated or suggested for regulation in these days; and at the last comes the New York Legislature with a scheme for investigation and regulation of the business of undertakers. The dead......Twenty of Haggin's race-horses from Sacramento arrived at Monmouth people certainly had not contemplated this class as likely to be brought to the bar of public judgment, or required to cut their cloth by legislative measure. Their vocation is so intimately related to the profoundest sympathies and tenderest emotions, that no one had thought they could possibly be made the subject of legislative inquiries, which deal rather with things of active life than with the silence and in

We learn that the "new idea" is to have the whole undertaking business "regulated" something according to the approved modern methods of legislators who "get their work in" upon unfortunate victims who possess a business that will endure the regulative rack and not die in the midst of its agonies. Thus, the legislator in New York who has discovered this new field for the exercise of legislative ingenuity, proposes to have the whole undertaking business investigated, with a view to permitting only "qualified" men to engage in the business of putting people un-'Funeral Directors" created, before whom all persons engaged in the business shall be presented for examination, and only those shall coffin the dead who are granted certificates of competency. #### The Jewish Passover.

The observance of the Jewish Passover will commence at the synagogue on Sixth street at 7 P. M. to-day. The Passover is a Hebrew festival, instituted by Moses in commemoration of the Israelites remaining intact on the night of the destruction of the first born in Egypt, immediately preceding the exodus from that country. Originally it was observed by sacrifici Passover lambs toward the evening of the 14th of the 1st Hebrew spring month, and eating them on the following night, as well as by excluding all leaven from the meals of that evening and the following seven days, the first and last of which were observed as holy. Since the final destruction of the temple of Jerusalem, the Passover has been celebrated by eating unleavened bread during the seven days, by abstinence from labor on the first and last, and by the observance on the first evening of various domestic rites commemorative of the de liverance from Egyptian bondage, includ ing the recital of scriptural and legendary narratives and familiar conversation on the same national event, and the chanting

RAISING THE STANDARD.

More and more, people are looking to us for the best things. We started years ago with goods on the common level. The stock was neither better nor worse than that of the average store. But the prices and methods took. The business began to grow. It was soon the largest of its kind in town.

But we knew there was a limit below which goods could not be sold. We knew the principles and methods of the store could and would be copied Clearly then, if we were to keep the lead already gained, something else must be done.

What better field for energy than in raising the standard of our goods? In getting

OUT OF THE COMMON RUT?

We entered then on a work that is still going on. We began to pay more for our goods. Ever since we have been returning customers a part of their money in the way of goods that have cost more to make.

Take it in a popular article. Men's Shoes, at five dollars. Compare ours with any on the coast. There's a big difference. Put them side by side with our same shoe of even two years ago. The present article is worth at least from fifty to seventyfive cents more. Part of

THAT SEVENTY-FIVE CENTS

Is paid out of the profit. Part comes from larger buying—the result of having such a shoe at five dollars.

We have not only raised the standard of our goods by bettering qualities, but also by getting the best makes. Look at the various trade-marks and labels, and you will see how large a per cent. of our goods are made by men who have

WORLD-WIDE FAME.

Even as we write a new name is being added. The goods of PRIESTLY, maker of the finest Black Wool and Wool and Sik Dress Clothes in the world, are here for the first time-a man who makes for Royalty. Famous all over Europe and America. Unequaled, supreme. Twenty dollar gold pieces cannot buy better stuffs than these at $1 to $2 per yard. Better cannot be made.

And so it is that in all lines of goods we are constantly raising the standard, and people more and more are finding it out.

mittent fever germinate and bear evil fruit. No community has altogether escaped it. In populous wards of large cities bad sewage causes it, and in their suburbs stagnant pools in sunken lots breed it. There is at once a remedy and a means of prevention. Its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is, without peradventure, the most potent antidote in existence to the mala-rial virus. Fortified with this incomparable, saving specific, miasmatic influences may be encountered with absolute impunity. Disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, begotten by miasma-tainted water, or any other cause, succumb to the benefi-cent corrective named, and rheumatic, kidney and bladder troubles are surely removable by its use when it is given a per-sistent trial.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has cured me of as bad a case of Abseess of the Liver as any human being could be afflicted with and live. After using a quarter of a bottle of this medicine I began to feel better, and every additional dose seemed to bring new health and strength.
